Anastasius religious policy, deposed Severus, the monophysite Patriarch of Constantinople and by similar measures succeeded in making orthodox doctrine dominant in the chief centres of his Asiatic dominions, and in effecting a reconciliation with Rome.

518-527

Justin reigned in Constantinople He was the first of the emperors since the extinction of the line of THEODOSIUS who thoroughly satisfied the Catholic Party.

Justin was an old soldier who had served in the imperial armies for some 50 yrs. He had associated with him in rule, his nephew Gustaveon who on his accession was already thoroughly conversant with the whole system of administration

Anastorius died, an old man, after a highly creditable reign, 8 yrs before Theodoric. His rule had been that of a sound and experienced administrator and he had done his best to calm the theological animosities which were reproduced in the civil factions of the Eastern Capital. He left a well-filled treasury.

but no him and the diadem was unexpectedly secured by an elderly Illyrian officer JUSTIN, the respectable uncle of a ~~very~~ very remarkable nephew JUSTINIAN who succeeded him
